SignWriting is a way to read and write any sign language in the world, because it writes body movement. Sign Languages are becoming written languages because of SignWriting.

Studies show that SignWriting helps Deaf students learn to read and write spoken languages better, as well as giving Deaf people a feeling of pride and self-worth when writing the poetry and literature of their own native sign languages.

SignWriting is free to use with 100s of free documents to read & download: www.signwriting.org.

Non-Profit Organization

Center for Sutton Movement Writing (CSMW)
Deaf Action Committee For SignWriting (DAC)

The Center for Sutton Movement Writing is an educational 501c3 non-profit charity founded in 1974, located in La Jolla, California. The Center sponsors Sutton Movement Writing, for writing all body movement, which includes five sections: DanceWriting, MimeWriting, SportsWriting, Gesture-Writing and SignWriting, for writing Sign Languages.

The Center sponsors the Deaf Action Committee For SignWriting, which provides Deaf adults training and part-time employment; and the SignWriting Literacy Project, donating books and software to classrooms with Deaf students.
