

The SignWriting
Literacy Project For Deaf Children

...teaching the born-deaf to read, write and type...

Our Mission

Improving literacy levels of the born-deaf.

Requested by Teachers. Our literacy materials are sorely needed. Educators have suggested and requested them.

Why Is It Needed?. Not all born-deaf children learn to read and write well. Many schools graduate born-deaf children with little or no English skills. Why is this? One reason is that the born-deaf's first native language is not English, but Sign Language. Learning to read and write your second language before learning to read and write your first language is very difficult. Before SignWriting was invented, there was no solution.

SignWriting makes it possible for deaf children to read and write Sign Language and English side by side. For many deaf children, SignWriting is the bridge to literacy. The purpose of the Literacy Project is to test this in the schools and to then disseminate the documentation to other educators for review. Documentation already received has been outstanding and the results are quite successful. Kids who could not read before are reading in ways that people would never have dreamed.

Target Population. The age of the students varies depending on the school. Our focus is K-12. However, Deaf people of all ages can use our materials. Some Deaf adults have greatly benefited from our materials too. We have created a special web page for each school, which documents the students' progress, and provides information for parents & teachers.

How Many Served?

Software & Web: Thousands receive free software, free lessons online, and free documented feedback posted on our popular SignWriting Web Site: www.SignWriting.org.

Donated Materials: Hundreds of deaf children per year plus groups of Deaf adults, are receiving donated books, videos and software. Their parents and teachers benefit from our donated materials too. This includes two residential schools for the Deaf, four mainstreaming hearing impaired programs at elementary schools, and one private-tutor with 7 deaf children. The schools are all over the USA. Our organization is located in Southern California.

SignWriting Email List: 180 members include teachers, administrators and researchers. Issues surrounding literacy for the deaf are discussed. This service is provided free by our non-profit organization, and is helping educators learn of new developments.

Part-Time Employment For Deaf People

Deaf staff members help prepare the materials.

No Duplication...No other agency duplicates our services, since this is a new way to teach the deaf. No funding is received from the United Way.

Project 1

Donating Special Materials To Schools For The Deaf

For born-deaf people to function in a hearing world, they must learn to read and write words - words they have never heard. Profoundly deaf people cannot "sound-out" words. They must learn to read from rote-memory, without sounds to help them. The SignWriting Literacy Project develops specially-designed storybooks, textbooks, dictionaries, videos and software for the born-deaf. Once developed, we donate our publications to classrooms with deaf students. Funds are needed to print these materials and ship them to schools. The schools in turn provide documented feedback.

Project 2

The SignWriting Online Dictionary For The Deaf

Background

The SignWriting Literacy Project for Deaf People is solving a problem that, up until now, seemed unsolvable. There have always been profoundly-deaf children who are born-deaf and never learn to read and write a spoken language well. Our invention, SignWriting, is a key to unlocking the road to literacy, by providing Deaf children a way to read and write their own Sign Language. This in turn inspires them to read and write spoken languages, because for the first time, the world of written literature becomes an active part of their lives. And classroom documentation is now proving this to be true.

Our Center For Sutton Movement Writing, which sponsors the Literacy Project, is a 501(c) (3) educational nonprofit, now 26 years old, located in the San Diego area. We are an international organization, servicing Deaf Education in 18 countries. Deaf literacy skills are improving because of our revolutionary work.

Practical application of SignWriting is producing amazing results and is currently the subject of research at the University of New Mexico. The study is documenting SignWriting's success in the classroom. Using the system, Deaf children are actually teaching their teachers how to read and write signs, and translating their documents into English to share with their hearing parents. For many born-deaf children, this is the first time they have ever written any language, a major step in building self-esteem.

SignWriting Dictionaries Teach Language

A good dictionary for the born-deaf could be a key to unlocking their isolation, partially caused by illiteracy. In the past, there was no way to read and write Sign Language. But with SignWriting, it is possible for Deaf people to write signs themselves, and find words, a major improvement over older dictionary methods that showed photos of a person signing, with no way to write those signs. Now, with our new SignWriting Online Dictionary, edited by a staff of Deaf native signers, reading becomes an interactive experience for Deaf people, because they can sign the words they are learning to read and write, just as a hearing person might “sound out” pronunciation.

Reaching Thousands

Since 1995 our organization has harnessed the power of the Internet to great advantage. We now have up to 1000 unique web visitors a day from over 18 countries (the number fluctuates daily). Since going online, we have seen an explosion in the use and acceptance of SignWriting worldwide. Our proposal is to better serve current and future users by making the SignWriting Online Dictionary available via ordinary Web browsers. Beginning and advanced users, as well as teachers and linguists will have immediate access to the latest version of the SignWriting database free-of-charge. Users will type "search-words" to find signs, and "search-signs" to find words, in several languages.

Phase One

Setting Up The First Dictionary on the Web

Funds in Phase One cover the database and website development costs, as well as the software licensing and server hosting fees for three years. The result will be our first working SignWriting Online Dictionary on the web. It will be a small dictionary to begin with, approximately 1000 signs and words. Once tested with Deaf people, teachers and researchers, we can then move on to Phase Two, creating larger dictionary databases.

Dictionary Phase One Estimated Budget

Database development	20 hours @ 125.00 hr.	2,500.00
Web publishing, HTML programming and design	40 hours @ 95.00 hr.	4,000.00
Database hosting	36 months @ 149.00 mo.	5,364.00
Server set-up fee		75.00
Database Web-Setup Costs		$11,939.00
Data Entry of 1000 signs and words	80 hours @ 30.00 hr.	2,400.00
TOTAL PHASE ONE		$14,339.00

Dictionary Project Phase Two

Converting SignWriter Dictionary Files to Online Databases

10,000 new signs added
automatically from old files
Easy data entry for users
Large databases quickly

Since 1986, our non-profit organization has developed, distributed, and enhanced the SignWriter Computer Program. SignWriter makes it possible to type any Sign Language in the world. Born-deaf people who use Sign Language can learn to read, write and type in both Sign Language and spoken language. The program is available in ten spoken languages and 17 signed languages. It is used by Deaf people, teachers and researchers in 18 countries, and can be freely downloaded on the SignWriting Web Site.

The current version of SignWriter includes a Dictionary feature. As people type SignWriting documents, they can also save the signs they type in their SignWriter dictionary file. Currently, these "SignWriter Dictionary Files" can only be used within the SignWriter Computer Program. They are not accessible on the web, or in any other database program. Some dictionary files have over 5000 signs. These are valuable databases that need to be placed on the web, and used in other database software.

In Phase Two, a computer programmer who knows SignWriter, and a FileMaker database expert, will work together to convert SignWriter dictionary files into FileMaker databases on the web, creating a much larger SignWriting Online Dictionary. This will automatically add at least 10,000 signs to the database immediately. Plus SignWriter users can continue to create their dictionaries with the SignWriter Computer Program, knowing that they can convert their new dictionary files to the web at any time.

Once SignWriter Dictionary Files can be converted to web databases, a web designer will need to improve the SignBank web site, where the database is located, so that users have clear instructions on how to convert their dictionaries to the web.

Dictionary Phase Two Estimated Budget

Computer Programmer	150 hours @ 75.00 hr.	11,250.00
FileMaker Database Expert	10 hours @ 125.00 hr.	1,250.00
Web Site Improvement	20 hours @ 95.00 hr.	1,900.00

Based on information supplied, and assuming your operations will be as stated in your application for recognition of exemption, we have determined you are exempt from Federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

We have further determined you are not a private foundation within the meaning of section 509(a) of the Code, because you are an organization described in section 509(a)(2).

You are not liable for social security (FICA) taxes unless you file a waiver of exemption certificate as provided in the Federal Insurance Contributions Act. You are not liable for the taxes imposed under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (FUTA).

Since you are not a private foundation, you are not subject to the excise taxes under Chapter 42 of the Code. However, you are not automatically exempt from other Federal excise taxes. If you have any questions about excise, employment, or other Federal taxes, please let us know.

Donors may deduct contributions to you as provided in section 170 of the Code. Bequests, legacies, devises, transfers, or gifts to you or for your use are deductible for Federal estate and gift tax purposes if they meet the applicable provisions of sections 2055, 2106, and 2522 of the Code.

The law imposes a penalty of $10 a day, up to a maximum of $5,000, for failure to file a return on time.

You are not required to file Federal income tax returns unless you are subject to the tax on unrelated business income under section 511 of the Code. If you are subject to this tax, you must file an income tax return on Form 990-T. In this letter we are not determining whether any of your present or proposed activities are unrelated trade or business as defined in section 513 of the Code.

You need an employer identification number even if you have no employees. If an employer identification number was not entered on your application, a number will be assigned to you and you will be advised of it. Please use that number on all returns you file and in all correspondence with the Internal Revenue Service.

Please keep this determination letter in your permanent records.
